Supporting Employment for People with Disabilities

The Technology@Work Program is designed to support people with disabilities who have workplace barriers in British Columbia who require Assistive Technology for employment or volunteer activities.

Technology@Work will:

- Work with you and your employer to find the best solution to meet your needs
- Help you obtain the Assistive Technology equipment, products, and services you require
- Provide training if required
- Help to navigate you to other services and supports in the community to assist you in your employment situation
- Provide you with the latest information about workplace Assistive Technology from our Resource Centre

Eligibility:

You must have a work related barrier due to a disability or functional limitation which can be addressed by Assistive Technology. This may also include barriers related to traveling to and from the workplace. You must be a resident of and be legally entitled to work in British Columbia; be 16 years of age or older; currently be or just about to become employed, self-employed, or volunteering. WorkBC clients and public sector employees are not eligible.
