will continue to serve as one of the leading business associations in North America for advancing environmental sustainability and innovative workforce solutions in the business community. We also remain focused on the critical issues of fair and equitable taxation, efficient transportation, and the high cost of living and working in the Lower Mainland.

In June of 2022, the BBOT launched its 2022-2025 Strategic Plan, which outlines the goals and objectives of the Burnaby Board of Trade and will guide its operations for the next three years. It was developed by the staff of the Burnaby Board of Trade, under the guidance of its Board of Directors. The priorities of the plan were set in consultation with our membership and as a result, feature an increased focus on issues affecting the Burnaby business community. We continue to embrace our role as the catalyst, convener and champion of a thriving business community; we could not be more excited to grow and innovate, together.

As we take on the challenges and the opportunities of the coming year, I want to thank all of our members, the City of Burnaby, community partners and my staff for their support. I hope to work closely with all of you to build a resilient sustainable future for our community.

With best wishes,

Paul Holden

President & CEO, Burnaby Board of Trade

The last year has felt like a renaissance of sorts – as we emerge from the shadows of the global Covid-19 pandemic and take steps into the bright light of a renewed future for our community, I am all the more grateful for the support of each individual member of our business community. Without the support of each one of these businesses both large and small, we couldn't do the work we do on behalf of the business community as a whole.

These last twelve months have seen our Burnaby community come back together in person, not just to network, but to collaborate, innovate, and create profound change in the way we do business. With the support of our membership and community partners, we have been able to provide leadership and programming that directly impacts the bottom line of business.

The Burnaby Board of Trade has had a long history of being an impactful organization, and I am proud to say that we will continue to build on this legacy; we will continue to serve as one of the leading business associations in North America for advancing environmental sustainability and innovative workforce solutions in the business community. We also remain focused on the critical issues of fair and equitable taxation, efficient transportation, and the high cost of living and working in the Lower Mainland.

Letter from the Mayor

We're ready to build a bright future for Burnaby.

Earlier this year, City Council approved the most ambitious capital plan in our city's history – a $500 million investment into key infrastructure in Burnaby.

Over the next five years, we have a vision to build and open an unprecedented number of new facilities including new fire halls to ensure the safety of all residents, a new public works yard to maintain and enhance service to the community, and new pools, community centers and libraries to deliver the kinds of programs and recreation we all love.

This capital plan will also be essential to our long-term goals to make vital shifts in housing, transportation and climate action in Burnaby. This spring, we completed work on one of the largest EV charging lots in all of Canada. The City Hall lot features an innovative solar canopy, which will allow us to generate additional emissions-free energy, while providing charging ports for up to 101 electric vehicles at a time.

Not even a global pandemic could slow down the growth of our city. Despite the challenges we faced over the last two years, we continue to lead by example when it comes to addressing housing affordability.

Right now, more than 12,000 units of rental housing – both non-market and market – are either being built or in the development stream. As of this fall, we had already issued more than 1,000 building permits for a total value of over 1.7 billion dollars.

But we're not ready to stop there – in early 2023, we plan to look at ways to encourage and permit the growth of infill housing: triplexes, fourplexes, townhouses, rowhomes, cottage clusters, and low-rise apartments.

I'm grateful to have the support of Burnaby residents as we embark on a transformative period for our community. We have the opportunity to build a sustainable community that works for everyone – and I'm excited to get back to work on behalf of our residents over the next four years.

I want to thank the Burnaby Board of Trade, which continues to be an invaluable resource for business, entrepreneurs and non-profits in our community, for all of their support as we build a better Burnaby.

Sincerely,

Mike Hurley

Mayor, City of Burnaby

Beyond Survival: Thriving in the New Economy

When the World Health Organization declared the global COVID-19 virus a global pandemic in March 2020, business practice as usual ceased to exist. The social and economic upheaval that rippled across the global business community and beyond created new obstacles and challenges, but also opportunities for innovation previously unseen in modern business practices.

Now, nearly three years later, business is still anything but usual. Although we are physically able to gather again, we are still feeling the effects of the pandemic; many of the innovations, as well as the challenges, are here to stay. As the chamber of commerce for Burnaby, the Burnaby Board of Trade is here to help you navigate through these changes social and environmental strategies.

With our unique position as the economic development partner for the City of Burnaby, the Burnaby Board of Trade is positioned to spark economic growth by attracting new businesses to our community, supporting new ones, and removing barriers to growth for all. We are a catalyst of business interests - a critical partner in growing the businesses, and the business leaders, who create that help our community thrive.

The Burnaby Board of Trade recently released our 2022-2025 Strategic Plan. Included in the plan is a commitment to:

- 1) Develop and make available to members a Talent Solutions Service that addresses, amongst other things - the employee talent shortage, how to develop labour market resiliency, and what BBOT can do to support young entrepreneurs.
- 2) Enable Burnaby businesses to thrive at the leading edge of the "digitization of business" wave.
- 3) Provide member businesses with the resources and ability needed to 'ride the wave' – develop the resilience and adaptability required to continue to succeed in these times of rapid and significant change. → and integrate new practices into your day-to-day that will help your business thrive.

As the third largest city in British Columbia, Burnaby is home to a thriving cluster of businesses including information technology, wireless, biotechnology, life science, film, new media, education, environmental technology/services, tourism and professional services. Burnaby also has companies in industrial sectors such as light industry, warehousing/distribution, heavy industry, agriculture and not-for-profits. What has made Burnaby one of the most livable and best-run cities in Canada is its commitment to community engagement and building long-term economic,

What has made Burnaby one of the most livable and best-run cities in Canada is its commitment to community engagement and building long-term economic, social and environmental strategies.

To accomplish this, the Burnaby Board of Trade is hard at work realizing the following initiatives:

- Working with post-secondary partners, partners representing new Canadians and people with disabilities, and other minority groups to establish channels for businesses to access individuals as a means of developing a larger “work-ready” workforce.

- Working with post-secondaries to develop and enhance existing digital micro-credential and training programs for businesses.
  - Developing further iterations of a Digital Development Assistance program and creating an enhanced member-to-member connection program to bring together businesses with digital needs with members with relevant expertise.
  - Fostering, supporting and enhancing the member-to-member ecosystem to create greater engagement, collaboration and community as well as developing programming and events aimed at providing education, peer collaboration and sharing success stories and case studies.

The Impact of the Board of Trade – Fighting for YOU

Did you know that the Burnaby Board of Trade is anchored by the “3 Cs” value system? Every day, we strive to be the ultimate Catalyst, Convenor, and Champion – equipping the Burnaby Business community with the tools it needs to become the ultimate place to live, work, and play in Canada and beyond.

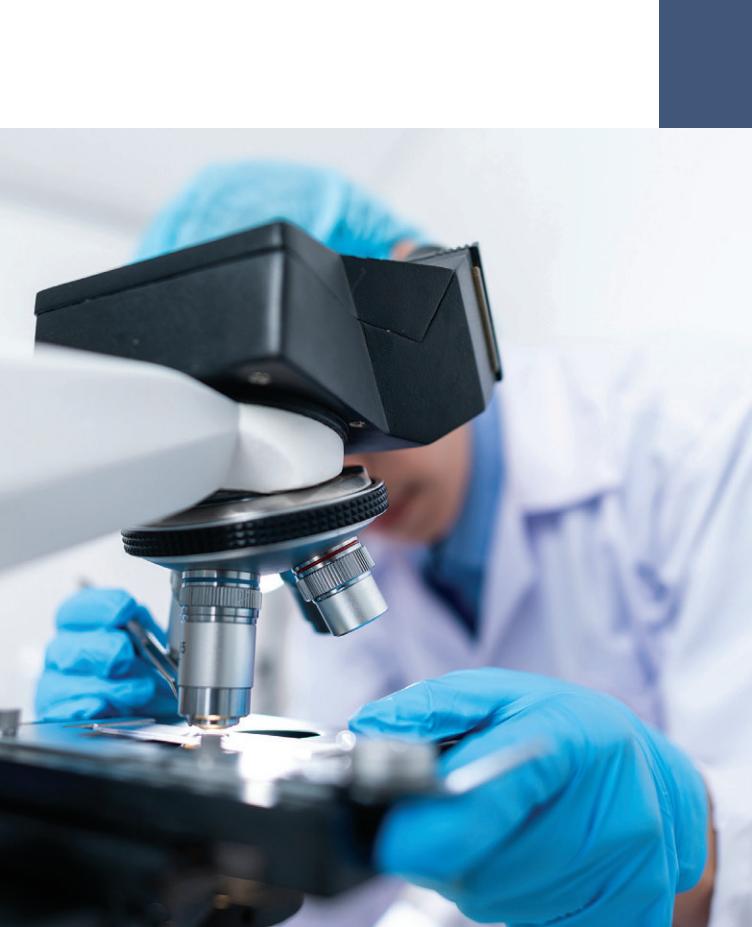

The Board of Trade takes pride in being the ultimate champion for business by advocating for and representing your interests with all levels of government; we know that when business works together, we are not only stronger, but our efforts are more impactful.

Championing change has been the Burnaby Board of Trade’s mantra for over a decade and continues to drive collaborations, partnerships, advocacy and education on behalf of our membership. We are proud to be the voice of local businesses and to use that voice to advance the issues and concerns that impact our businesses and our community as a whole.

Through direct engagement, collaboration, advocacy, partnerships and action, the BBOT drives innovation, impact and change to build a prosperous, resilient and sustainable community.

In June of 2022, the Burnaby Board of Trade attended the British Columbia Chamber of Commerce Annual General Meeting and Conference (BC Chamber AGM) in Prince George. There, we met with representatives from other Boards of Trade and Chambers to advocate on behalf of our members. This year, the Burnaby Board of Trade presented three policies, which were accepted and subsequently adopted as BC Chamber policies and will be presented to the provincial government as such. All three of these →

has been implemented and interpreted in a very broad way that negatively impacts employers, and in some cases, even workers.

3) Implementing Changes to property assessments to protect Businesses from Unsustainable Taxation

Many businesses across BC are facing an existential threat in the form of unsustainably high property tax bills. This problem is fueled by the BC Assessment process of valuing properties based on the “highest and best use” of the property (such as a redevelopment), and not on its current use. Due to this model, businesses, whether property owners themselves or through their leases are being taxed on the future development potential of their sites with little regard for the current use of the property, or the cash flow or profitability of the current business. These high property tax bills can threaten the survival of many small and medium-sized businesses, and risk hollowing out local economies as businesses are forced to either relocate or close altogether due simply to the skyrocketing cost of their property tax bills. A provincial solution that mitigates the impact of soaring, inequitable property assessments on the tax bills facing the business community is needed.

policies focused on pertinent issues for Burnaby and BC businesses, including the manufacturing supply chain, paid sick leave and property assessments and taxation.

1) Building BC’s Bio-Manufacturing Supply Chain

Throughout the COVID-19 pandemic, both the provincial and federal governments have spoken to the importance of domestic bio-manufacturing capacity to produce tests, vaccines and therapeutics to combat the COVID-19 pandemic and pandemics of the future. However, before a test, vaccine or treatment can ever be manufactured, the constituent parts and ingredients must be secured. Without also investing in a local supply chain that can provide the necessary inputs for bio-manufacturing, BC and Canada risk undercutting our own efforts to bolster our domestic capacity and increase our self-sufficiency.

2) Amending Paid Sick Leave in BC

As of January 1, 2022, BC employers are required to provide at least 5 days of paid illness or injury leave, otherwise known as ‘sick leave’ to all employees. This new employer obligation, while laudable in its aim to support workers and protect workplaces, represents an unnecessary intrusion by the government into the employer-employee relationship, creates a new financial and administrative burden on businesses that are only starting to recover from the pandemic, and

We are open for business

Thriving town centres, charming urban villages, a vast selection of commercial spaces and award-winning educational institutions bring businesses to Burnaby.

The City's supportive Council, its diverse and welcoming residents, and its focus on safety and climate action initiatives—from energy efficient buildings to EV charging stations—keep them here!

We welcome you to join us in calling Burnaby home.

If you have questions about doing business in Burnaby, please contact the Burnaby Board of Trade at 604-412-0100.
